Question: 3

A customer states that the standard base warranty is sufficient. How should you respond?

- A. The standard base warranty only lasts 30 days. You might as well start by buying services to provide greater protection for your devices.
- B. With a base warranty, you cannot choose the service level or the repair method. Can you afford to wait if repairs are needed? What happens after the base warranty expires?
- C. The price difference between services and hardware is so little. Does it make sense to only count on the standard base warranty?
- D. 80% of customers who start with the standard base warranty will pay for enhanced service coverage before the standard warranty expires.
